

POWER IS SUPREME IN INVESTIGATION

Examiner Heck Has Same Power to Compel Attendance of Witnesses That is Conferred on Any Court of Record

Water Works Investigation is Still in Progress— Engineer Sherman on Witness Stand Admits That Over $10,000 Was Lost to City By Change of Sites.

Will E. Heck, who is conducting the water works investigation, is one of the most suave and gentlemanly men that it could be one's pleasure to meet, but he is also absolutely without fear in his work and the thoroughness with which he is doing it, is the marvel of those who have been attending the sessions. He seems to know just where to put his hand upon any document which he wants to show a witness and what he does not have at his fingers end Las at the end of his tongue. Any witness called by Mr. Heck, knows before the examination has proceeded very far, that any attempt at subterfuge will be quickly detected and shown up.

Probably the general public does not realize the man's authority, but it is absolutely supreme regarding this investigation. He has the same power to compel attendance of witnesses that is conferred upon any court of record, and the witnesses are in the same jeopardy for contempt as they would be in any court of law. Mr. Heck has the authority to issue a subpoena to the sheriff to bring in witnesses, but he does not do this unless a witness should become recalcitrant. His idea is that it is less expensive to personally notify a witness to appear than to use the law's strong arm to compel his attendance, and thus far no witness has refused to attend.

Mr. Heck is of opinion that his final report on the water works matter in Newark will be over 1,000 pages. One report will be filed with Governor Harmon, another with the state auditor, and the third with City Auditor Wulffcop.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON'S SESSION.

At 1:45 o'clock Mr. Sherman again took the stand. Mr. Heck endeavored to find out why he (Sherman) should have recommended a change of sites of the water works plant and from whom he took any data, which would have necessitated the change. The trend of the examination being to find out whether or not he had talked to Mr. W. C. Christian (as an individual, and not as representing the Board of Service of the city of Newark) concerning the change of sites.

The Davis drawings were called for and some time was consumed in looking them over, relative to the elevation of the two sites. Continuing Mr. Sherman said:

"The contemplated elevation in the Davis plans (which was reported by Davis himself) was given as 92 feet above the level of the court house park. I made an extensive examination of the new site, and found a difference of 11 feet existing between the height of the ground water at the two sites.

"The general level at the old site was 92 feet and that at the new was higher. I should think that the new site was 1-1/2 feet higher than the old, as far as regards the engine beds, and as to whether or not the engines would be overtopped by an extra rise in the water in the creek bed.

"The elevation of the present site is approximately nine feet higher than that of the abandoned site, as I would judge from an examination of blue print plans.

"Photographs were shown and examined of the old site, showing the water standing around and above the concrete work.

"Our firm recommended the change of sites, because of the fact that at the time, 1906, the pumping station would have been too close to the city, and that if the city should have grown, a part of the city would have been above the intake line, which would have been undesirable.

"The land north of the city chosen by the city was very valuable, compared with the land bought for the purpose of erecting the water works station, which is now under discussion."

"Do you think," asked Mr. Heck, "that the land north of the abandoned site, was adapted for building purposes?"

"Some parts of it, yes, sir. I should think that the tract measuring east and west from the B. & O. railroad, suitable for residence property, would be 20 acres, east of the railroad, and 12 acres west, making a total of 32 acres.

"As the conditions are at present I would not personally consider the land available for residence purposes, but many people will take chances, in purchasing property, of being flooded.

"I have a filter in my house at Toledo and I use it for the purpose of filtering the water supplied by the water works system of Toledo, which draws the water from the Maumee river. The installation of a filtration at the Newark plant was ordered by the State Board of Health, and I was given to understand that the people of Newark had been educated to want a reservoir system rather than a direct system of pumping the water through the mains.

"My idea in recommending a change of sites was to secure the best water at the lowest expense possible, to the city, and I thought that a change of sites, and the installation of an infiltration system was advisable. The letter recommending the change of sites, was written by our firm on October 28, 1906, to the Board of Service of Newark.

"My idea was that the ground water (as flowing into the old site) should be taken into consideration, and the new site was recommended by us, as getting rid of the ground water, which might interfere with the concrete work."

"The witness was asked as to whether or not he didn't know that according to modern engineering, concrete work could be done, regardless of any water flowing into the work."

"I would say that if the Davis system of water proofing had been followed out by the contractor, in the construction of the work, it might or might not have resulted in water flowing into the engine and boiler rooms."

"I don't know as to the condition of the plant at the present time, but if water came through the concrete walls, it was on account of the lack of diligence on the part of the subcontractor, employed by the American Light and Water company."

"Why didn't you, Mr. Sherman, comply with the specifications of the contract, which you had in your possession at the time you were employed?"

"There was a difference of 500 square feet in the floor space contemplated by the Davis plans, and those that were taken into consideration by our firm, and I should think that there would have been about 1,000 square feet more of water-proofing for the concrete work at the new site than the old one.

"We took the word of our man, who was on the job, as to the amount of water proofing done."

"Our estimate was made as to the amount of water proofing at $150, which was included in the amount of $26,000, which was given by our firm to the Board of Public Service, as to the complete cost of the building."

"The gross cost of the work done at the abandoned site was over $12,000, but from this amount should be deducted a small amount of salvage, amounting to $2,000, but I would rather shift the responsibility upon Mr. Smith, when he goes on the stand to give the exact amount. This salvage was in the nature of certain material used at the new site, that had been put in at the abandoned site, so that the total amount spent on the abandoned site was something over $10,000 which was lost to the city by abandoning the old site."

The examination of Mr. Sherman, the engineer who was employed to succeed L. K. Davis, was continued Tuesday evening by State Examiner Will E. Heck, along the lines as outlined in the afternoon session. The questions asked were regarding the building at the new site. In response to moving the site, Mr. Sherman said that in spite of the increased cost in moving the site, he was still of the opinion that this should have been done, and he would again recommend the change of sites under the same circumstances as existed at that time. Mr. Sherman was again called to the stand Wednesday morning.

"In January, 1907, the plans called for the lump sum of $26,000 for the construction of the building, but March 14, we forwarded amended plans to the Newark Service Board, which included some extras and the final estimate exceeded the $26,000 somewhat."

"Our plans, as amended from the Davis plans, included a front entrance and lobby and other extras which amounted to something over $5,000."

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

"The front entrance to the pumping station as contemplated by our designs was different from the Davis plans, and we intended it to be more ornamental, or 'flab-dubbing' as it was called by Mr. Lamb.

"(Mr. Sherman was shown the contract, and was asked to point out where it contemplated a lobby.)

"As I recall it, the head of the American Light and Water company had assured the city service board that his company would not be bound by changes made by sub-contractors, and we were endeavoring to get the A. L. & W. Co. to agree to changes as we had made them, and the A. L. & W. Co. agreed verbally with us, and I don't think the A. L. & W. Co. made any money in the construction of the building. As contractors I don't believe that the A. L. & W. Co. could have been held to make the changes according to our plans."

"I was employed by the city and had charge of any changes to be made. At that time the work of construction by the A. L. & W. Co. had been held up by legal proceedings, and there was considerable money put in by the company as contractors, and I was informed that the A. L. & W. Co. wanted to go to work as soon as possible to complete the work of construction."

"The pipe delivered in Newark for the A. L. & W. Co. was brought here under conditions of a falling market."

"I think that the A. L. & W. Co. paid $35.00 per ton for the pipe delivered in the city in 1907. In October, 1906, pipe was worth $23.75 c. b. in Chattanooga. The price of pipe fluctuated considerably about this time."

"It seems, Mr. Sherman, from the testimony adduced, that in December, 1906, pipe was rushed into the city, at a price to the city that would have enabled the contractor, the A. L. & W. Co., could have made money."

"I think that is true," stated the witness. Following this up Mr. Sherman said:

"Most of this pipe was delivered prior to my arrival, or 1,325 tons. The final estimate shows 4,855 tons delivered, according to the final estimate made by us."

"I presume that the A. L. & W. Co. got the pipe at probably $25 per ton, and protected themselves from any loss occasioned by any sub-contractor. I don't know whether the pipe was delivered at Newark for the A. L. & W. Co., at a price which gave them a material profit from the U. S. East Iron Pipe Co., who furnished the pipe."

"Some of the pipe delivered here was second class, and I don't believe it would have been accepted at a public letting, but might have been sold to private water companies."

"I don't think that it would have passed inspection for new pipe. I don't think it could have been sold to the four-dry, from which it was purchased by the city, through the A. L. & W. Co."

"The prevailing market price at the time the pipe was delivered, was higher than at the time it was purchased by the A. L. & W. Co."

"We were not concerned with any profit the A. L. & W. Co. should make, but wanted to avoid embarrassing delays, and see the plant constructed for the city at the earliest possible moment. I knew that time was the essence of our contract, but don't believe that any date could (Continued on Page 7, Col. 3.)

DUNCAN BABY THAT BRAVES COLD IN GREEK CLOTHES

This is little Menekas Duncan, the fourteen-year-old son of Raymond Duncan, who was taken to court by agents of the Children's Society in New York because his father permitted him to go about the streets in bitter cold weather clad only in a thin silk shirt and sandals. Duncan and his wife and child, all wearing the simple garments of the ancient Greeks, have attracted much attention in Europe and the eastern cities of this country. The little boy has never worn any other clothes than the silk shirt and sandals, and his parents declare he has never had a cold or suffered the slightest discomfort from cold weather.

INDIANS INSPECT STATUE OF WOMAN WHO GUIDED LEWIS AND CLARK

Chief Spotted Weasel and James Holding Eagle, full blood Mandan Indians from the agency at Fort Totten, N. D., went to Chicago and inspected a statue of an Indian woman, the product of a Chicago sculptor, which is to be placed in the state capital at Bismarck. They went to the statue of Leonard Cruikshank and after looking at the big clay model for several minutes pronounced it a genuine work of art and in keeping with Indian tradition. The statue, which is to be of bronze, typifies Bird Woman the young squaw who guided the Lewis and Clark expedition through the Rocky mountains. The money for the statue was raised by the women's clubs and school children of North Dakota.

SENDS MESSAGE TO LEGISLATURE URGING INVESTIGATION OF HIGH PRICES.

Charges Combination and Conspiracy to Stifle Competition as Responsible for Advanced Prices.

Columbus, Jan. 12.—Gov. Harmon's special message urging the investigation of high prices was read in the legislature this morning and Senator Beatty's resolution for an investigation committee of four was presented in each house.

The house referred it to the committee of the whole in order that immediate action could be taken. The senate passed the resolution under a suspension of the rules.

Senator Beatty's resolution provides "full power and authority" to investigate the purchase, storage and sale of all foodstuffs in any part of the state by individual firms or associations. To look into all agreements or understandings affecting the price or transportation of foodstuffs, and generally to investigate the cause or causes of advances in the prices of food products.

Governor Harmon in his message charged combination and conspiracy to stifle competition with the responsibility for advanced prices.

He said: "This belief, apparently, is justified by the enormous differences between the prices paid to the farmers, cattle raisers and other producers and those paid by the consumer to the dealer from whom they directly receive their supplies. It is currently reported, on the statement of such dealers and other authorities, that the prices at which they sell are fixed by those from whom they buy, with threats of cutting off further dealing if the prices so fixed are not maintained."

OVERTHROW

OF PRESIDENT MADRIZ IN EXPECTED WITHIN NEXT FORTNIGHT.

Revolutionists Do Not Want Estrada to Agree to Terms Other Than Elevation to Presidency.

Bluefields, Jan. 12 (By Wireless to Colon).—The complete overthrow of President Madriz and the government forces within the next fortnight is expected by revolutionary sympathizers here today as the result of the victories of the advance guard of General Chamorro's army, which is advancing on Managua.

Gen. Chamorro is at the head of 3000 men and is now in the Chontales department. General Mena, with 5000 troops, is counted on to defeat the government troops under General Basque at Acopra, where a decisive battle is today imminent.

Provisional President Estrada is believed to have the situation so well in hand that there is an increasing demand that he agree to no compromise with Madriz on any other terms than the elevation of himself to the presidency.

BOY MURDERER IS TAKEN TO PRISON

Puts Up Question That Professors of Sociology Should All Endeavor To Solve

Says Every Bit of Kindness in a Boy's Nature is Killed by the Beatings at Reform School and They All Grow Crafty.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 12.—"Why don't some of these Christians who go down into their pockets to Christianize the heathen, dig down for the young boys released from state institutions?"

"Most of us go to the reform school, intending to turn over a new leaf."

These are a few of the state vents of Robt. McCormick, graduate of the state reform school at Lansing, and boy bandit, on the eve of his departure for state's prison to serve a life sentence for killing Henry E. Minor at Ypsilanti.

Michigan University professors of sociology today declared the statement to be the greatest social and human document that ever came to light in this state.

"Maybe," continued the 20-year-old murderer, "our souls aren't as valuable as the soul of a Chinaman. But we're kids when sent to reform school and while we know the difference between right and wrong, still maybe it doesn't appeal to us as it does to the boy whose parents have been able to give him the care that's the right of every child born into this world. We say the under side of life, and sin wasn't to be feared by us as by other kids. Most of the kids get into the reform school over some little offense."

"Now a boy's got to be farther down than most of the boys that strike the reform school if he doesn't want to learn. But it doesn't take us long to realize that somebody's made a mistake. Before we have been there 24 hours we realize that we're considered 'criminals,' though the worst charge against us may be that we are truants."

"Did you ever hang around a public school where there were some kids that were backward in their studies or some whose clothes were poorer than the rest, or maybe where there was some disgrace in their family that the other kids knew about? Talk about your cruelty! You don't know what cruelty is till then. Maybe some of us become truants because of such taunts."

"Every bit of kindness in our nature is killed by the beatings at reform school and we grow crafty."

"Then one day comes our last. Instead of the reformation that we expect—instead of the attempt to save us from our faults we are met with a feeling, 'You brute, what a wicked boy you are.'"

"The result is that many of us find that murder and hatred against teachers over us had crowded out, in less than a week all the good intentions. Place some really Christian people at the gates to rescue us from the intentions we take out of that reform school."

MINES

Will Probably Resume at Deadwood in Near Future With Non-Union Men.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 12.—Preparations for resuming work in the Homestake mines and mills on a non-union scale are being rushed forward today and probably in about a week the 240 stamps will be dropping. The management announces it has 1000 men signed up for the present and does not intend to import miners, although it has applications from 2000 in the west.

One cyanide mill and the lime plant will be started up on part capacity, and the rest of the plants as fast as the former employees, who are wanted in preference to outsiders, sign up.

Western Federation officials are hurrying to the scene, two having arrived here, and more on the road. The union officials declare that the management cannot work its property with the present supply of men.

Mine Superintendent Grier, in an interview, declared that the whole Homestake trouble was the result of a threat of President Charles H. Moyer, of the Western Federation, made ten years ago, to get even because the Homestake at that time fired him.

The result of the election for other officers will not be announced until tomorrow.

RALPH COLE

Findlay, O., Jan. 12.—Ralph Cole, representative from the Eighth Congressional district, is a new insurgent. Today Cole stated that he had recognized a large and clearly defined sentiment in his district against Cannon and Cannonism and that if he is chosen to succeed himself he will follow the mandate of popular will in the district and vote against Cannon. He said he would support for the speakership a Republican in complete accord with the progressive policy of the national administration.

THE SAME OLD STORY

Franklin, Pa., Jan. 12.—An old well shooter and 2 men helping him loaded explosives on a wagon and with a team of horses, were blown to bits when a nitroglycerin magazine at Brandon Ferry, near here, blew up shortly before noon today. A house across the Allegheny river from the magazine was totally destroyed by the force of the explosion, and many other houses were damaged. The shock was felt 10 miles.

GAS EXPLOSION WRECKS HOUSE

 At the home of Mrs. C. C. Cummings, 34 North Morris street on Tuesday morning at half after ten o'clock occurred the marriage of her sister, Mrs. Levena Stansberry of Hopewell, Ohio, and Mr. Jacob Wilson of Bentley, Kansas. A wedding dinner was served after the ceremony and at 1:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left over the B. & O. for St.

A UNIQUE SET OF FURS.

The combining of different furs is unusually popular this winter, and we show above a unique set made from a herd of sable, edged on each side with white fox. This makes a charming set of furs for a young girl.

DOROTHY LETHBRIDGE RECITAL.
 A large and cultured audience greeted Miss Dorothy Lethbridge, the young English pianiste on her first appearance in recital in Newark last night at the High School Auditorium. For two hours she held them spellbound, with her magnificent art and was greeted with the most tumultuous and spontaneous applause ever shown by a Newark audience to a foreign artist.

In an amazing program, beginning with Tausig's tremendous arrangement of the Bach D-minor Organ Toccata and Fugue, a tax on brain and technique, and the thirty-two variations in C-minor of Beethoven, to the final number of Liszt the Concert Study in F-minor, and the famous Venezia e Napoli, she played with a perfection of technique and ease, delicacy, and matchless tone quality that simply beggared description.

It proclaimed her not as a "woman who is an artist—but an artist who happens to be a woman."

Particularly remarkable was her execution of the Chopin Etude in C-minor, the Schumann-Liszt "Erl-King," and the Chopin Polonaise in E-minor, the Chopin Preludes and the Mendelssohn Scherzo in E-minor. While in the delicious Berceuse of Chopin the Rubinstein's Barcarolle, and the Schumann Romance, she gave a faultless rendering with a tone quality that might almost be described as unique, so absolutely pure it was and flawless.

This quality was observed in all her work, the music predominating even in the most brilliant technical displays.

She had a valiant assistant in the beautiful Everett piano, which responded to every mood.

Much credit is due Prof. Williams for giving Newark an opportunity to hear this great artist so justly spoken of as the successor to Carreno and Sophie Menter.

MAY MERGE WITH BOARD OF TRADE IN NEAR FUTURE

The second dinner of the men interested in forming a club of the business and professional men of the city, was held at the Warden hotel at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening and was an enjoyable affair. The dinner was prepared especially for the members of the club and was thoroughly appreciated by all.

Chairman Edward Kibler of the board of governors made a report that fully explained the purpose of the organization. This was gone into fully and showed in a conclusive manner what benefits could be obtained individually and for the city through an energetic affiliation of the business and professional men of Newark.

The proposed constitution of the club was then read by Albert A. Stasel and a discussion followed. It developed that many of the members were in favor of a merger of the Board of Trade and the club. With the idea of seeing on what basis a consolidation might be effected, the proposed constitution of the club was referred to the board of governors with instructions that they meet with the Board of Trade directors to consider the merger.

The meeting was presided over by Frank L. Beggs president of the club, and after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read by Secretary W. H. Mazey and approved by the club, the work of the evening was taken up by the seventy members present.

WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC TO BE BLOTTED OUT

New Yorkers To Make Great Crusade
Against the Evil—Part of Harrison Estate for Park.

New York, Jan. 12.—Backed by every dollar at the city's command and the moral support of every decent New Yorker, the most searching crusade against the white slave traffic that ever shook Gotham has been set on foot here today. Squads of detectives under the command of a special grand jury, headed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are already engaged in sounding the depths of the underworld, through which it has been determined to probe for every evidence of this vile system. No stone will be left unturned, the authorities declare, until final proof is shown that New York is either bound by or freed from the hideous machinations of the modern slave traders. For months the people of this town have smarted under the sting of the charge that such vicious business throughout the country centered here, and now they are ready to halt the present inquisition until the city is purged of every vestige of this shame.

Has in Urbs.

To insure a breath of country air and a glimpse of woods, fields, birds and brooks to future generations in the congested confines of this metropolis, 10,000 acres of the Harrison estate just across the Hudson river, are today being prepared for a public park. When chimney pots shall have finally made up the sky and pavements formed the earth of all the country round about Manhattan Island, it is intended that in this untouched tract New Yorkers may still see and scent one carefully preserved bit of nature. Already grass and leaves have become almost extinct within the boundaries of Greater New York, while the song birds that formerly flicked about the outskirts of the town are rarely seen or heard. Bands of holiday pot-hunters are destroying the bird life of this section, officers of the National Association of Audubon Societies declare, much sooner and more surely than the encroachments of the builders lay bare the green growth. To preserve the few remaining songsters here, the Audubon workers are preparing to urge emergency measures by the authorities. Bird life means health and wealth to the people here, as well as all over the country, they declare.

Filial Filigree.

A million for a house, a million for its furnishings and still another million for filial sentiment is the story of the $3,000,000 price just paid by Harry Payne Whitney for the mansion that his father originally built up, according to the auditing that intimates of the young millionaire are making today. Within in the walls of this unpretentious brown-stone pile on upper Fifth avenue the elder Whitney set up more rare things of beauty than many a museum contains, it was known before the Whitney heirs sold it to a stranger. For all this two millions the added million cost only be counted in the tribute to the memory of his father, whose dearest delight had been the rearing of this home. While real estate records show that no such sum was ever paid for any house here, the people of this town believe that the young man who is joyously re-entering his old home, has his full money's worth.

Mourn Motors.

Great gasoline savings and sad stress on shoe leather promise to be features of the new city administration here, as the result of orders against joy-riding that have been issued by incoming office holders today. The fleet of hundreds of luxuriously appointed touring cars, that were formerly always at the disposal of favored city employees, is now anchored in the municipal garage, while the men who used to use the city cars as their own are renewing their acquaintance with the sidewalks and street cars. While Mayor Gurnea walks miles to and from the city hall, many of his heads of departments are waving away the motor cars that await them and are trudging off like ordinary mortals. Hundreds of the political heelers who draw salaries from the taxpayers are making a loud outcry at thus being deprived of the means for continuous joy riding, though the plain people who do the paying are heartily behind the move.

Record Revels.

That half a million bottles of champagne were drunk in the revels of New Year's Eve has been figured by the hotel and restaurant men of this city today. Actual count of the $2,500,000 worth of "wealthy water" that was poured down the throats of Gotham's crowds from 10 o'clock one evening until 4 next morning has established this record of consumption. Cellars and vaults all along the Great White Way are today being laboriously replenished as the result of the tide of thirst that taxed their most resources at the opening of the year. If this is any indication of the lavish spirit that will mark the opening year, New York has come back to the full measure of its prodigal prosperity, it is predicted.

COL. CRAWFORD'S HORSE SALE IS A BIG SUCCESS

The first sale of the year at the Sharon Valley Stock Farm is being held today and a hundred head of fine horses are being disposed of by the auctioneer. Buyers from several adjoining states are present and some of the fine horses being sold by Col. Geo. Crawford are going into distant territory. The colonel recently received a consignment of extra fine animals and these were put on sale along with some horses of good pedigree that have been practically raised at the farm. Good prices were secured for every offering and the large crowd that was present did some spirited bidding. Guests at the farm of Col. Crawford are being well cared for and the sale will probably be one of the most successful ever held at the famous stock farm.

HOUSE

Will Not Concur in Senate Amendment to Ballinger Investigation Resolution.

Washington, Jan. 12.—By unanimous consent the house today adopted a motion not to concur in the senate amendment to the Ballinger investigation resolution.

Speaker Cannon appointed Dalzell, Republican, Pa., chairman of committee on rules Smith, Republican, Iowa, and Fitzgerald, New York, as house conferees. That the Pointed amendment, allowing witnesses to be represented by counsel, which was stricken out in the senate, will be a subject for debate was indicated by the alertness of Underwood, Democrat, Alabama, who would not consent to sending the resolution to conference until Dalzell agreed that the house should have the right to debate this proposition when the bill comes from the conference.

The insurgents are not satisfied with the speaker's conferees, and announced that they would be on hand with the hope to overrule the conference report if it is not satisfactory to them.

FOUND HER LOCKET.

Miss Zoe Frost, of Hebron, has recovered a valuable diamond studded locket through the lost department of the Advocate's classified columns. The locket was found by Mrs. Wm. Cunningham, wife of the well known South Second Street meat dealer, who refused to accept any remuneration for her trouble, although Miss Frost had offered a liberal reward. It is needless to add that the young lady was overjoyed at her good fortune and thankful that the lost article fell into honest hands. She is also convinced that Advocate advertising pays.

JOHN L. ABERNATHY.

John L. Abernathy, formerly a dispatcher for the B. & O. in this city, died at his home near Mansfield on Monday evening of paralysis. He was stricken while sitting in a chair. He was born in Lexington and came to this city, where he learned telegraphy and later he secured employment in the offices of the B. & O. here. He was known to many B. & O. men between Chicago and Wheeling and was highly respected by them.

Still, the man who dares the President of the United States to dismiss him from office is so unusual as to present a somewhat refreshing contrast.

Fame and fortune beyond the dreams of avarice await the genius who can devise a steam radiator that will always produce the right amount of heat.

INDIGESTION AND STOMACH MISERY ENDED

One, headache, heartburn and other distress from a bad stomach goes in five minutes.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally. This powerful digestive antacid, though as harmless as plain water, will dissolve and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headache, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.

If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no indigestion or sleepless nights or headache or stomach misery all the next day, and besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapiesin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia. There is nothing better for gas on the stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

You couldn't keep a handier or more useful article in the house.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

AMUSEMENTS

VAUDEVILLE AT AUDITORIUM

When speaking of vaudeville you think of either Wm. Morris or B. F. Keith, as these two gentlemen control more acts and vaudeville theaters than any other men in the world. They both book acts and own or control theaters in every large city in the United States and also in Europe. The management of the Auditorium theater has arranged with the Chicago office of the Morris circuit to book six big acts for the last three days of this week, with daily matinees. Popular prices: matinee, children 10 cents, adults 20 cents. Evening, 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats are now selling.

NANCY BOYER AND COMPANY

When you are told that Miss Nancy Boyer, who, with her clever company will begin a week's engagement at the Auditorium theater, is one of the most remarkable features before the public today, you will not doubt be inclined to question, but do not let your skepticism keep you from enjoying the good things in store for you at the local theater. Irresistible in personality, delightfully girlish, with mannerisms that compel love rather than admiration, and the ability to give her acting a depth and salience truly wonderful, Miss Boyer stands pre-eminent among the popular price attractions today. Her assured Miss Boyer will please you. Not only that—you will forthwith elect yourself another of her countless press agents and begin to boast.

That clever American comedy, "Sweet Clover," will be given Monday, matinee and night, at the initial curtain raiser. Be in on the first one and you won't have to inquire to find out what you are missing. Seats for Monday.

WATER WORKS PROBE

"I don't think that it should have taken as long as it did to install the pumps. I think the work should have been done in two seasons.

"Our designs were made to cover the cost of a plant of over $500,000, and I believe that of this amount the A. L. & W. Co. would have received $300,000. I don't think that if I were a contractor, I would want to bind myself to complete the work in less than 20 months, because there might be delays from bad weather, strikes at foundries and others over which the contractors had no control. Under ordinary circumstances I don't think any responsible contractor would bind himself to complete the work in less than two years, if there was a penalty clause in the contract."

"What would you say as to the responsibility of a contractor, who would bind himself to complete the work contemplated in Newark, in 120 days, as was done by the American Light and Water company?"

"I would say that the contractor was untruthful, but if no penalty was required, he could make such a contract."

(The witness was shown the clause of the contract which provided for the payment of $50 per day to the city for delays which were not occasioned by causes over which he had no control.)

"I should say that the American Light and Water company were foolish to contract for the completion of the work in 120 days, or any length of time under two years, but I don't know anything as to the financial responsibility of the company. As with other companies they are sometimes 'flush' and at other times are hard pressed for money, but they do not seem to have any difficulty in securing bonds to indemnify any lack of competency on their part, in the construction of any work given them, which has been mostly in the west."

"I don't know officially that Mr. L. K. Davis was to receive four per cent of the total cost of construction of the plant, but if he was dishonest, it would have been to his interest to have insisted upon the completion by the contractor of the work, given them by the city of Newark."

"From what I know now, I would not if I had been a member of the Board of Public Service have contracted with the American Water and Light company, but I never heard that information was received in Newark, regarding the A. L. & W. Co., that it was financed and backed by three bum promoters."

"Did Davis receive nearly one-third of the proposed compensation of four per cent, about 75 days after the work began under his contract?"

"I don't know."

(The witness then read letters regarding a strike at the plant of the Platt Iron Works, in which the company explained a delay in delivering the castings for Newark, to be used at the pumping station.)

"I made plans for the pumps, but don't know that the Platt Iron works had most of the castings to be used, made at other foundries, prior to the strike at their works."

"Excavation for the foundation for the pumps began in May 1907, and if the machinery was ready, the pumps should have been installed two weeks after the foundations were laid."

"The American Light and Water company never maintained a competent man in Newark to supervise the construction of the work, and for this reason many delays were caused. Mr. Ulin was here for a time and Mr. Bonnell was also here, and I think that both of them were members of the A. L. & W. Co."

"I think that it cost the city about $2,000 for each month of delay in the construction work, and the engineer was authorized to discharge any superintendent or sub-contractor, but I didn't think I could discharge either Bonnell or Ulin, as they were members of the A. L. & W. Co."

"I think that the A. L. & W. Co. did most of their work as promoters, and through sub-contractors, and I think that they were unwise in their selection of superintendents and sub-contractors on the Newark work."

"The pump station and appurtenances as contemplated by plans drawn by our firm, was to cost $114,722. This was to include every change made in the stack and other portions of the building. I did not take into consideration any changes made in excavation."

"In making up my estimate I took into consideration the contractor's profit of 12-12 per cent, but don't know whether or not, as a matter of fact, the contractor made any money. The 12-12 per cent would include expenses for advertising and other incidentals."

"Was Mr. Smith authorized by you as your representative to make any changes relative to the changes in the building with the A. L. & W. Co.?"

"He was, but I don't think they amounted to very much."

"At the noon adjournment which was appointed by Mr. Heck, as 1 o'clock Mr. Sherman was asked if, as he understood the contract, he would have made the contract relative to the changes made."

"Now, Mr. Sherman, I would ask you as to whether or not the change of site was justified?" asked Mr. Heck.

"I would say, (the witness referring to estimates made by him for extras) that the cost of the building at the present site would be more than at the abandoned site."

"As to the striding and prism lights contemplated in the plans which were given by Rizex & Sherman to the board of service of which Mr. Christian was president. Mr. Sherman stated that the amount that would have been taken to complete the building at the abandoned site according to the Davis plans, would have been $34,458.70."

"I would think that this cost would not have included, nor did we think so, the prism lights and grating."

"I think that it was a very careless oversight that made the cost more, to complete the building under our plans than those prepared for the city."

by L. K. Davis, and upon which an engineer's estimate was made."

"The cost of the plant at the old site, if it had been completed, in comparison with the completed at the present site, I should think would be nearly $10,000 more at the present site than at the one abandoned."

THOUSANDS OF FISH

Were Frozen to Death at Buckeye Lake During the Past Ten Days.

(Thornville News). Mr. M. S. Custer, brought to town, Monday, the head of a black bass which weighed 5 1/4 pounds. This fish had been out of the ice at the mouth of Honey creek, where it empties into the old canal channel. At this point there is only six to eight inches of water between the ice and the bottom of the creek and thousands of fish of all kinds and sizes up to six pounds froze to death during the recent cold weather. Those who saw the fish at this point claim that more than a wagon load of black bass and Lake Eries weighing from two to six pounds perished in this pool. Where is the state game and fish commission? Where is Deputy Game Warden Milliniski? Why waste the people's money by stocking Buckeye Lake with young fish and by allowing wardens to loaf about poaching and then by carelessness permit more fish to die in a few days than the "snake hunter" could have netted in five years? The people in the vicinity of the lake believe that the game and fish commission should put Mr. Milliniski to work cutting holes in the ice and doing all possible to save the fish. Years ago when the "snake hunters" were allowed to fish with nets they looked after the protection of the fish when the reservoir was frozen over and the loss was little compared with that of this winter. When the water was drawn down the warden and deplorables should have taken the fish from the shallow pools and put them in the deep water and so prevented this awful loss.

Colonel John Sneed's Conversations on Domestic Problems

Copyright, 1898, by C. S. Yeast.

IV.—Making a Man of the Boy

COLONEL SNEED watched with sparkling eyes and swelling chest the efforts of his infant grandson to swallow a very small but very chubby foot.

"There is no use a-talkin', honey," he observed to his daughter, Mrs. William Hottel—"there's no use a-talkin', but that's a remarkable child, a most remarkable child. He knows what he wants and he's goin' to get it or break his neck a-tryin'. Just notice how he hangs on to that foot. He's got a grip like a country politician, and he's as dead set as Jim Robinson's old mule. Did I ever tell you about that mule, honey?"

"No, papa, but all babies suck their toes if they're given a chance."

"Hub! Maybe they do, maybe they do, but they don't all do it the same way. Every human walks on two legs, yet it's easy to tell a man from a mollycoddle by the way he steps. When it comes to readin' character, there ain't many can get ahead of your old daddy, and I don't need a telescope to see that this young un is an extraordinary child. He's got the makin' of a man in him, and he'll make one, too. If you don't let foolishness head him off."

"Whr, papa, what on earth do you mean?"
"Just what I say, honey. There's a whole lot of people in trousers loafin' around this town who'd 'a' been real men perhaps if their mothers had let 'em alone. The main point in raisin' boys is in knowin' where to stop."

There's too many mothers—and they're good mothers, too; I ain't sayin' anythin' against their intentions, but there's too many of them—that's got the idea that they ain't doin' their whole duty unless they make little angels out of their boys. Some of them succeed, too, but the product don't stay on earth very long. Little angels are all right in heaven, no doubt, but they don't seem to fit into the plan of things down here. As old Bill Swift's always sayin', they're kind of de trop. What we need in this vale of tears is men, just plain men, and the sooner you get that fixed in your noggin, honey, the better it'll be for William Matrimotie there. Just look at the little rascal kick. I never saw such an extraordinary child. Honest, I never did."

"But, as I was sayin', honey, the main thing in raisin' boys is knowin' when to let 'em alone. And boys, I want to tell you, can stand a whole lot of lettin' alone and be all the better for it. If you let that youngster get the notion that he's boss of the shop, and I see signs of it already; if you jump and run every time he bores and fetch and carry whenever he commands; if when he gets old enough to understand, you talk about how sweet he is and how smart he is right before his face; if you pet him and coddle him all the time and feed him things he's got no business to eat just because he wants them, he's pretty certain to turn out a prig that'll have as many friends as a sheep stealin' cur and be about as much use to society. Maybe you're wonderin' why the woods are full of just such people. Well, that's the reason. If I had a chance to be born again and was given my choice between that kind of a mother and no mother at all I'd say, give me an orphan asylum."

Yet some of the sweetest and best women God ever made make that very mistake, and the funny part about it is that they don't know it and their boys don't know it. But everybody else does."

"There's another way of not lettin' 'em alone, and that's boppin' around all the time, like a hen on a hot griddle, hollerin' 'don't'. That's the mother with the overbearing conscience who's got a stern duty to perform and raises her boys with a plumb line and a banner. She believes, like the poet, in bavin' to the line no matter where the chips fall, but the trouble is that most of the chips fall the boy. She's got her eagle eye fixed on him every minute of the day, and every time he turns around there's a 'don't' shot at him until he's afraid to do anything at all. And the chances are that he never will do anything worth mentionin', for if the habit once gets fixed it's pretty apt to stay through life. I know lots of men who don't amount to a row of pins because they're afraid of makin' a mistake, and I'll bet a whole lot that most of them owe their dispositions to the way their mothers trained them."

"No, little girl, if you want to make a man of that boy give him a fightin' chance to develop accordin' to nature's plans and specifications. You've heard the old sayin' that the Lord takes care of drunken men and little children. I have my doubts about the drunken men; I think it's another party that looks after them. But there's no mistake about the children, and if I was goin' to write a prescription for the makin' of a man I'd put down twenty parts good example, ten parts good advice, twenty parts love and fifty parts trust in Providence. If you're ridin' a thoroughbred horse you don't want to use spurs or whip, and you don't need to touch the rein except to guide him. It's the same way with that youngster there. He's got good blood in him, and all you've got to do is to keep him in the middle of the road, and nature 'll do the rest. You and William have got first to set the right kind of an example. You can't be much of a guide unless you know the route; you can't expect him to be truthful if you tell fibs; you can't expect him to be honest if you look out the car window when the conductor comes by; you can't expect him to be honorable unless you are honorable, not only in your dealin' with him, but with others. It takes a mighty little preachin', but a whole lot of practice, to raise a boy right."

"You'll have to remember, honey, that the boy don't know the road. Once in awhile you'll have to give the rein a little pull to the right or the left to keep him from strayin' off at the forks, and now and then you'll need to check him up from goin' into mudholes or stumblin' on rocks, but that's about all. You're his guide, you must understand, not his driver. About every so often he'll come to a fork where the left hand road 'll look to him lots more attractive than the right hand one, and then you'll have to explain the difference. You'll have to show him that the main thing to know about a road is where it's goin' to wind up. Put it up to his intelligence and he'll go the right way nine times out of ten, but if you try to club him into goin' that way it's ten chances to one that he jumps the track and cuts across the fields."

"That's about the long and short of it, little girl. It's an easy matter to make a man of a boy if you just keep him headed the right way and let him develop as the good Lord wills. Look at him now, will you? Makin' googoo eyes at his granddaddy. Most remarkable child I ever saw."

and William have got first to set the right kind of an example. You can't be much of a guide unless you know the route; you can't expect him to be truthful if you tell fibs; you can't expect him to be honest if you look out the car window when the conductor comes by; you can't expect him to be honorable unless you are honorable, not only in your dealin' with him, but with others. It takes a mighty little preachin', but a whole lot of practice, to raise a boy right."

"You'll have to remember, honey, that the boy don't know the road. Once in awhile you'll have to give the rein a little pull to the right or the left to keep him from strayin' off at the forks, and now and then you'll need to check him up from goin' into mudholes or stumblin' on rocks, but that's about all. You're his guide, you must understand, not his driver. About every so often he'll come to a fork where the left hand road 'll look to him lots more attractive than the right hand one, and then you'll have to explain the difference. You'll have to show him that the main thing to know about a road is where it's goin' to wind up. Put it up to his intelligence and he'll go the right way nine times out of ten, but if you try to club him into goin' that way it's ten chances to one that he jumps the track and cuts across the fields."

"That's about the long and short of it, little girl. It's an easy matter to make a man of a boy if you just keep him headed the right way and let him develop as the good Lord wills. Look at him now, will you? Makin' googoo eyes at his granddaddy. Most remarkable child I ever saw."

Stops Lameness

Much of the chronic lameness in horses is due to neglect.

See that your horse is not allowed to go lame. Keep Sloan's Liniment on hand and apply at the first sign of stiffness. It's wonderfully penetrating—goes right to the spot—relieves the soreness—limbers up the joints and makes the muscles elastic and pliant.

Here's the Proof.

Mrs. G. T. Roberts of Kenaca, Ga., R.F.D. No. 1, Box 43, writes:—"I have used your Liniment on a horse for several years and it's a thorough cure. I removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a guinea egg. In my estimation the best remedy for lameness and soreness is

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. H. M. Gibbs of Lawrence, Kans., R.F.D. No. 3, writes:—"Your Liniment is the best that I have ever used. I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one eye, both of Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it around all the time for galls and small swellings and for everything about the stock."

Sloan's Liniment will kill a spavin, curb or splint, reduce wind puffs and swollen joints, and is a sure and speedy remedy for fistula, sweeney, founder and thrush.

BROWN-BUSCH DITCH CASE IS DISMISSED

Joint Session of County Commissioners Reaches Agreement—Licking County Court News.

The celebrated Brown-Busch ditch case was threshed over again by the commissioners of Fairfield and Licking counties at a joint session of the boards, held in this city on Tuesday. This case, in which a large number of taxpayers were interested, as it proposed the widening, deepening and straightening of the Licking river from a point near Hicksville to a point some three miles southwest of Newark. After going over all the details of the case, it was ordered that the petition and the proceedings be dismissed at the cost of the petitioners. The decision of the boards of the two counties, in joint session, is as follows:

In the matter of the clearing out and straightening of the South Fork of Licking Creek, petitioned for by John J. Busch and others, the boards having gone along the line of the improvement and had actual view of the same, and heard the testimony of all the parties affected by the improvement, the joint boards of county commissioners of Fairfield and Licking counties find:

First—That said improvement, as petitioned for, is not practicable, and would result in a benefit to the premises along and adjacent thereto, and other premises, excepting a small territory.

Second—That the cost of said improvement would be largely disproportionate to any benefit derived from the same, and would result in a practical confiscation of all property subject to an assessment for the improvement.

Third—That there is grave doubt that the laws of the state of Ohio authorize such an improvement as petitioned for.

Fourth—That the improvement would not be conducive to the public health, convenience or welfare.

Therefore, the joint board, consisting of the commissioners of Licking and Fairfield counties, O., find against the improvement; and it is ordered that the petition and proceedings be dismissed, at the cost of the petitioners.

It is further ordered that an itemized bill of the costs be made up by the county auditor for the examination and approval of this board, which shall include the per diem of the county surveyor, together with all costs and expense necessarily made.

Last Sunday afternoon in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. was launched the most important and significant movement that has occurred in Newark for a long time. Ministers and laymen of nearly every denomination met together to form the County Cooperative Committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and to formulate plans to get a large number of men to attend the great Dayton convention to be held January 23 to 27. The ministers having met the previous Wednesday the work was well in hand and only remained to be turned over to the laymen for future work.

The committee on nominations for president and secretary reported as follows, the report being adopted: For president, W. J. Fraser; for secretary, A. H. Evans.
